2019 CAAA Conference & Tradeshow

New To The Industry

Are you attending the CAAA? Are you new to the Ag Air industry? Consider this your invite to join us on Thursday February 21 to our New Entrant Session. The topic this year is "Bringing Value to the Operation." Being new or a rookie in an operation means you have to prove your mixing and/or flying proficiency and your respect for safety and company policies. And this takes time. Being just a mixer, or just an Ag pilot is a choice, but there are other ways to do more for the operation and make this a fulfilling career. Our guest pilot Aaron Trudell will tell you his story about finding ways to add value to the operation who gave him a chance. His personal growth was a win for him; his help to the operation made it a win for them. Other pilots will join Aaron and talk about their experience in being more than just a pilot.

Last year's CAAA guest speaker was Dylan Sher, producer of Before The Plate, a documentary aimed at closing the information gap between the producers and the final consumers of food. Sher's approach was to document downtown Toronto Executive Chef John Horne's journey to eight farms where he learnt about 10 ingredients he regularly uses in his restaurant. The documentary is released and it is streaming free for the month of February.
